

The background of the slide features a soft-focus, blue-tinted landscape of rolling mountains. In the foreground, a dark silhouette of a forested ridge is visible against the lighter blue sky. The overall aesthetic is serene and contemplative.

On the basis of the Bible as the final and unique authority, it is possible for a society and government to know form and freedom to the extent to which the society allows the biblical teaching to come to its natural conclusions.

—Francis Schaeffer—