

Rights and Responsibilities: George Washington

"[T]he consideration that human happiness and moral duty are inseparably connected, will always continue to prompt me to promote the progress of the former, by inculcating the practice of the latter." -George Washington to the Protestant Episcopal Church, Wednesday, 19 August 1789