

The education of all children, from the moment that they can get along without a mother's care, shall be in state institutions.