

Most men with nothing would rather protect the possibility of becoming rich than face the reality of being poor.

—John Dickinson—