

B. Nathaniel Sullivan grew up in North Carolina. He has experience in vocational church staff ministry and served as an editor at a major Bible study curriculum publisher for more than 17 years. He has

- a Bachelor of Arts degree (1979) from Wingate University in North Carolina, and
- Master of Arts in Religious Education (1982) and Master of Divinity (1987) degrees from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

Nathaniel's passion is to help Christians become rooted in a biblical worldview. Nathaniel has two websites.

- At wordfoundations.com, he posts articles offering a biblical perspective on contemporary issues, and
- at a second website, discoverbedrocktruth.org, he posts original Bible studies church groups can access and use, currently free of charge. Although designed for use by groups, these studies will benefit anyone wanting to explore the material on his or her own.

Nathaniel is the author of Heed the Pilgrims on Socialism and Critical Race Theory, which was released just prior to Thanksgiving in 2023. The book explores Events of 400 Years Ago That Provide Needed Insights for Americans Today and is available at amazon.com; visit <https://t.ly/kXoVD>.

Nathaniel currently resides in Tennessee with his wife and their two daughters.
