

If an individual won't readily support an approach that helps the poor without penalizing the rich, then he or she clearly is more concerned about hurting the rich than helping the poor.

